But the movement is likely to result as others have done in the past, and for the reason that the necessity for it cannot be made apparent to the great conservative mind of the country. The effort itself is regarded as a strife between Principle on the one hand and Princ between Principle on the one hand and Prejudice on the other; and such it is, and such only. The path of duty is plain and direct, but Prejudice the way, and this Prejudice is deterring men of otherwise lofty and patriotic purposes from lending their aid in the only way in which t can be effective, in crushing out the treasonable esigns that threaten great wrong to members of a common Confederacy, and in the end a disruption of the Union. It is no fault of the Demo cratic party that this prejudice exists. It is solely the result of long antagonism to the principles of that party, often as bitter as it has been un ry, charged as it has been from the beginn of all the States, has never sought to over-ride a line or sentence of the great Charter of the Union, but has planted itself upon the express stipulathat memorable instrument, and the plainest interpretation of the laws of the country And there it stands to-day, as in the past, the defender of the Union, and the rights of all the

Whatever of corrupion has ever found its way into the Democratic party, has resulted from attempts to fasten upon it the very heresies through which the Opposition arties have been brought into existence. These entiments and ideas, so dangerous in their tenocracy, but have been promptly and indignantle expelled even at the cost of the defeat of its can idates. In 1848, the refusal of the Democratic Tinsley and wife an independent movement which resulted in e defeat of Gen. Cass for the Presidency in that the Cour year. But the party lost nothing of its unity, its integrity and its devotion to the Constitution. The more recent Anti-Lecompton movement was another defection precisely similar in character, and like the other resulted in the temporary defeat of the Democracy; but the party is still firm, all its aims, and still breasting the mad designs of sectionalism; while those who have sought to

Messrs. Hickman, Haskin, Schwartz, and others elected to Congres upon ideas of a sectional character, which the Democratic party would not indorse, fare now found voting with the Black Republicans for a sectional candidate for Speaker of the House, and John Forney is claiming and receiving Black Republican support for Clerk of the House as a reward for his perfidy in seeking to engraft these heresies upon the principles of the save should belong to the donce, and be for that the slave should belong to the donce, and be for the use and benefit. the Democracy. These are facts which admit of no misconstruction. They attest the eminent nationality of the Democratic party, and the purity and patriotism of the motives which have animated that party in every section of the country. They ignore also the pretence which prejudice advances as a necessity for any third party

[From the N. Y. Journal of Commerce.] THE PROPOSED THIRD-PARTY MOVEMENT. Third parties are convenient at times, as a shelter politicians and others not properly classed as iticians, who cannot make their home with a ther of the two leading parties into which the voters of this country are always divided. We do not mean to say that third parties are never useful to the country, or that occasions might not arise which would lead us to support a third party candidate for President of the United States; but we have an opinion, based on considerable observation in political affairs, that, generally speaking, the efforts bestowed upon intermediate litical organizations are misdirected, and fall short of the real purpose and motive which compts men to enlist in such undertakings.

In a country like the United States, the peone one in power and the one out of power, and the electors will co operate with one or the other of them, to an extent which renders all other political organizations powerless, except incidentally to benefit one of the parties which its members decline directly to support. There are, of course, local exceptions to this general princ where the new or third party proves to be the successful organization, and changes places with one of its older rivals. Such was temporarily but as a national party it never succeeded in carrying more than a single State, in a Presiden plish whatever we have to do in a direct manner, taking the most simple and straightforward means of reaching the end in view, provided those means are honorable, and such as may be practiced by honorable men. If our duty calls us to Philadelphia on a certain hour of to-day, we know with reasonable certainty that by taking the direct train through New Jersey, we shall be able to keep our appoint. able to keep our appointment, while if we yield to a prejudice which many people have against paying tribute to that State, through the agency of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, and take a roundabout way over the mountains of Pennsylva nia, we may reach Philadelphia in season, and at all events shall avoid the imputation of having any association with that monopoly. Under such circumstances, what would a liberal minded, practical man do-take the direct route and meet his appointment, or the roundabout one, and have the satisfaction of avoiding the State of New Jersey, at the risk of failure? It would require but little reflection to enable a sensible person to lical determine this question, and yet it would not seem easier of solution than that other and more nportant one, what is the duty of national men the present critical condition of the country? The approach of a Presidential election finds sies, and our system of government threatened with overthrow in consequence of a feeling of hostility, in one section of the Union, to an institution of a local character, existing, and wh has exi ted since the formation of the Federal compact, in another section—an institution over which we have no rightful control. So intens is this feeling, that in the opinion of thoughtful men-those who love their country above all par ty ties-the result of the next Presidential elec tion, by the triumph of national principles and States' rights on the one hand, or of the representatives of the sectional agitators on the other may also determine the success or failure of our political system. In such an emergency, when the highest considerations of patriotism, and the most sacred regard for the supremacy of the Constitution, as well as the just rights of every State in the Confederacy, call for thoughtful, consci-entious political action, every proposition design-ed to influence the great question at issue should be carefully weighed and honestly determined by those to whom it appeals. It is, we suppose, an unquestioned political fact, that in the contest of 1860, now so closely at hand, either the Democratic or the Republican candidate for President must be successful, and that any third party which may be organized can only affect indirectly the result. This is the present aspect of the question, and it is with this distinct and explicit understanding of the case before us, that we are called upon to determine what is our duty, and what the proper course for conser vative men to pursue, respecting the various projects presented for their consideration. The Union movement which has been inaugurated at Washington, by the choice of a committee to ma-ture a plan for political action, followed as it has been by propositions to organize political Union clubs, Union leagues, &c., &c., in the principal cities and towns, has suggested these thoughts on the duty of national men in the present crisis, and led us to an examination of the question in this form, in the hope that before committing themflect upon the consequences to which they mad lead, and the probable results toward which they

One thing to us seems clear. If we would defeat the political party which, by the judgment of the conservative men of the country, is more than any other responsible for the evils which now beset, and the dangers which now threaten the through the agency of any new or untried politi-cal organization. Such a policy has neither the merit of a true patriotism, nor of practical samuch desire to promote. We presume that no one of the distinguished old-line Whigs or others organization prior to the Presidential campaign, would hazard the prediction that a party so organized could hope to elect an independent can date to the Chief Magistracy of the country If we are correct in this presumption—it the movement in which conservative men are invited to join, is to be one designed to afford a resting place for those who do not feel quite at home with either of the other parties, and merely seek an opportunity to throw away their influence and their votes, it is well that the matter should be fairly understood at the outset. We have no ambition to waste ammunition in that useless manner, preferring most decidedly to point our guns. will tell upon the contest, and perform some ser may be that we do not correctly appreciate the we refer, and as we are ever open to conviction. we shall observe them with care, so as to be better able to judge of their propriety, in this critito a decided preference for doing directly what we are called upon to do, rather than beat about the bush, as is too often attempted.

Mr. RUST moved to amend the bill by making States, the laws now in force, and the decisions of the Supreme Federal Court, afford adequate of the Supreme Federal Court of the Supreme and effective protection, to the inhabitants of the existing Territories in the enjoyment of their property; and until the contingency shall arise when it shall be manifest that the protection thus afforded is in adequate, they deem it the part of wise, patriotic, and conservative States to refrain from demanding of the Federal Congress legisla-tion for the protection of any peculiar or specific

The House resumed the consideration of Mr. Burnam's substitute for the fourth resoluion as OMMITTEE ON FEDERAL RELATIONS. Mr. FINN offered to amend Mr. Burnam's substitute as follows, to wit: "That the Constitution of the United States, the decisions of the Courts, and the means of enforcing the same do not now afford adequate protection to the enjoy-ment of slave property in the Territories. Therefore it is the imperative duty of Congress to intervene for the protection of said property, and pass such laws as will secure any citizen of the United States in the full enjoyment of his slave property in all the Territories of the United States. And that we do assert it to be the slaves, or harboring them, or to do any other act that will prevent the owner in the full and complete enjoyment of his property in his slave in a Territory. And that our Representatives in Con-gress are requested and Senators instructed, if the Territorial Legislature shall fail to do so, advocate the immediate passage of such laws."

Mr. McELROY was in favor of Mr. Burnam's substitute, as the strongest measure. He would vote for it first, and if he could not get it, he would vote for the next strongest and so on down The South has compromised for the last thirty years, and always got the worst of the bargain It was time to declare our rights-to tell the truth. He expected to be churched for his vote; but if it was the last act of his life, he would vote for the substitute. He warned his political friends not to be too tender-footed on the subject of slavery; for as soon as the Opposition party got ahead of the Democracy on this question; so soon would the Democracy go down. J. H. GARDNER'S ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL FEMALE INSTITUTE,

FEMALE INSTITUTE,

BRIDGEPORT, KY.

THE semi-yearly sessions of this Institute commence on the first Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, each year. The course of study embraces the Primary, Academical, and Collegiate Departments, with the Modern Languages. The mode of instruction is thorough and scientific. To raise the standard of Female Education is the great aim of the Teachers, and to aid them in this, a "Visiting and Examining Committee" of three will visit the school quarterly, and by their rigid examinations will prove, it is hoped, valuable auxiliaries to the Teachers in exciting a spirit of energy and application. The course of instruction embraces four departments, and diplomas will be granted those who complete thoroughly and successfully a full course of study. The location is in the pleasant village of Bridgeport, (four miles from Frankfort and forty-eight from Louisville,) which is unsurpassed for its salubrity, and the morality and refinement of its inhabitants make it a desirable place for the education of girls. It is convenient of access by the Louisville, Frankfort, and Lexington railroad, and by daily stages and omnibuses from Frankfort, Shelbyville, and Louisville. The young ladies board in the family of the Principal, and are treated with parental care and kindness, enjoying at the same time all the advantages of a refined social intercourse. The sessions will continue twenty weeks; but pupils are received at any time and charged accordingly. No deduction made for absence or withdrawal save in cases of protracted illness. All bills to be paid strictly and invariably in advance.

OUR REPRINTS versus ECLECTICS, &c.

As we have for many years been paying more than $3,000 annually to the British Publishers for the matter furnished in these Periodicals, thus virtually becoming copartners with them in the profits of the Reprints, we trust the public will consider this in bestowing their patronage, and give us the preference over Eclectic and over patch work publications, whether monthly, or weekly, which now extract so liberally from our works and pay nothing either to the Foreign Publishers or to us for the same. As to cheapness nobody can complain of paying $10 a year for the four leading British Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine, and by taking these works entire, subscribers are not obliged to be guided by others in the choice of the articles they may desire to read. Moreover, taking into consideration the style in which our Reprints are published and their acknowledged fidelity to the original editions, and also the advantage of an early issue by means of the advantage of an early issue by means of the advantage of an early issue by means of the advantage of an early issue by means of the advantage of an early issue by means of the advantage of an early issue by means of the advance Sheets—our series will be found as cheap as any of the competing publications to which we have alluded

A Specific for Hooping-Cough. A Specific for Hocping-Cough.

It is known by a few individuals in the counties of Jefferson, Shelby, and Oldham, that I have a remedy that effectually cures Hooping-Cough. If there are remedies in America or Europe that cures, it is not within my knowledge, (except the one I use.) Physicians tell the families they attend it can't be cured. I have no doubt they are candid in what they state. To get the medicine in use, and lult to sleep a deep-rooted prejudice, the faculty are invited to get the medicine, and save the little innocents whom they attend, and tell them no more it cannot be cured. One dollar will pay for two bottles, which is a sufficiency for one child. This medicine can be conveyed to any part of the United States by express for a mere trifle. The New American Cyclopædia is popular without being superficial, learned but not pedantic, comprehensive but sufficiently detailed, free from personal pique and party prejudice, fresh and yet accurate. It is a complete statement of all that is known upon every important topic within the scope of human intelligence. Every important article in it has been specially written for its pages by men who are authorities upon the topics on which they speak. They are required to bring the subject up to the present moment; to state just how it stands now. All the statistical information is from the latest reports; the geographical accounts keep pace with the latest explorations; historical matters include the freshest just views; the biographical notices not only speak of the dead, but also of the living. It is a library of itself.
